National Specification for R&D Call 1

France      Agence Nationale de la Recherche

The ANR (French National Research Agency) is a research funding organisation. The role of the Agency is to bring more flexibility to the French research system, foster new dynamics and devise cutting edge-strategies for acquiring new knowledge. By identifying priority areas and fostering public-private collaborations, the ANR also aims at enhancing the general level of competitiveness of both the French research system and the French economy.
